Community views sought for water plan

Westernport Water is planning to engage with its customers and the broader community when developing water and sewerage solutions to meet the region's future growth.

Westernport Water's Managing Director Murray Jackson commenting "We are committed to working closely with the communities we service to ensure their needs are met. It's vital that we explore all options when developing our water plan for the next five year period – starting July 2013.

We will have available a number of options for communicating with our customers on this plan over the next year and will work with the community to identify local views and opinions on water and wastewater services."

Additionally, we continue to engage the community through our Customer Consultative Panel, who have helped us understand the needs and expectations of our customers for the past nine years.

We invite interested people to join the volunteer Customer Consultative Panel to work with and assist to formulate the preferred future plan by exploring a wide range of community views."

Westernport Water encourages anyone who may be interested in the development of Water Plan 3, to register their interest on the website www.westernportwater.com.au or call our Customer Service team on 1300 720 711.
